NO MORE THREE-TIPS.

VIENNA, July 31.—American visitors to Vienna will soon be spared the bother to the "three-waiter" system at the restaurants. In every Viennese cafe the customer has to tip three waiters—the head waiter, who presents the bill; the waiter proper, who brings the food, and the boy known as the "piccolo," who brings the wine beer or coffee.

This complicated system exasperates the stranger who does not understand why he cannot give one tip to cover the whole service. But now it is proposed to introduce the ordinary system of one waiter having exclusive charge of a number of tables.

GERMANS AT JAMESTOWN.

Played Important Role in History of This Country.

PHILADELPHIA, July 31.—The National German Alliance has chosen August 1, for the celebration of a German Day at Jamestown Exposition. The German-American National Alliance considers the significance of the day of such importance that it should be impressed upon the youth of the present generation.

The proclamation sent forth by the Lutheran and Reformed churches, and the officers of the German Society of Pennsylvania, on August 1, 1775, wherein the necessity of taking up arms in defense of liberty is set forth is one of the most important documents of the Revolutionary epoch. It is a Declaration of Independence, urging a separation from British rule, issued by a peace-loving people, an appeal to their German brothers in various parts of this country, to vindicate the cause of liberty.

This highly remarkable document is signed by order of the Assembly of the members of the Evangelical Lutheran and Reformed Church Boards, as well as of the officers of the German Society.

The entire pamphlet numbered 40 pages. The German Volunteers met in the Lutheran school house, at Philadelphia (southeast corner of Fifth and Cherry streets.)

On March 25, 1776, they marched afield. It was on a Monday.

In order to afford them the opportunity of attending the quarterly meeting, the German Society held this meeting at 9 a. m.

The valiant deeds of those brave men are recorded in history, and among the days memorable in German-American annals, the first day of August, 1775, is one of the most glorious.

NO LIBEL

LONDON, July 31.—One of the strangest libel suits heard in the London libel suits heard in the London courts has just been disposed of. It was originally brought by the owner of a house in the country against a London paper which printed a story about the house being haunted. It was then tented by Stephen Phillips, the poet and dramatist, who was interviewed about the ghostly visitations. The owner was awarded $450 damages against the paper, which has now successfully appealed against the verdict. In reversing the former judgment the Master of the Rolls said the reputation of the house was common talk before the story was printed, and the value of the house had not been affected one penny by the publication of the story.

THESPIAN BARTENDER.

LONDON, July 31.—Acting has been abandoned for bartending by Aubrey Fitzgerald, an English actor, well known in New York, who has opened an "American bar" in the West End because he is tired of "resting."

Fitzgerald has been forced to go into business by bad luck in his profession. Although he was constantly engaged until a year ago, since that time he has only had one engagement of three months, and could not get his money for even that.

His saloon is in the theater district of London, next door to the Apollo Theater, where he fulfilled the longest of his recent engagements.

SECRETARY WILSON IN TACOMA.

TACOMA, July 31.—Secretary of Agriculture Wilson spent the day in this city as a guest of prominent citizens.
